

Mark Keyes

Over 20 year's construction experience as a craftsman and building contractor. Employed since 2009 by the Institute of Technology Blanchardstown (ITB), initially as a lecturer in the Department of Engineering and Trades, and currently as an Industry Training Coordinator. Active in the development and delivery of training programmes designed for the up-skilling of construction craft workers in the fields of energy efficiency, renewable energy and building retrofit. Currently involved in the Build Up Skills Ireland project, leading the report on the national status quo of energy training for building workers.